"Working with Production Attic on our feature length documentary 'Voyage of a Lifetime' was a brilliant experience. They immediately understood the tone of what we were looking to do.

Condensing the story of the development journey of Sea of Thieves into 90 minutes was always going to be a challenge but we always felt in safe hands. They were able to work with our development teams in both the UK and the US, meaning that we were able to achieve the scope that we wanted for the documentary as well."
